Muddy Models

Buy or make brown play dough. (See recipe for Chocolate Play Dough HERE) Say, "What color is this play dough? That's right, it's brown! What are some things that are brown? Today in the Big God Story we heard about how Jesus used mud to help a man. What color is mud? Yes, it's brown! Let's play with the play dough."

Muddy Eyes

Print the Eye Template (found HERE or draw your own) and gather brown paint and cotton swabs. Alternately, gather all the brown writing utensils you have to use instead of paint. Say, "Jesus is so powerful and does amazing things. What did He rub on the blind man's eyes? That's right! Mud! Do we rub mud in our eyes? No, mud would hurt our eyes. That was something special Jesus did for the blind man. Let's use paint to cover the eyes on our paper with the color brown. The brown paint will be like the mud on the blind man's eyes."

Can You See?

Cue some upbeat worship music (find a fun playlist HERE). Say, "What happened today in The Big God Story? Interact with children and their responses. Let's close our eyes and then cover them with our hands. Can you see? Okay, now open your eyes. We're going to play a game. When you hear the music play, you'll get to do fun and silly moves and dance a fun and silly dance. When the music stops, you'll freeze and cover your eyes. When the music starts again, you'll open your eyes and start moving and dancing again. Are you ready? Do you think the man whom Jesus healed was excited and celebrated that he could see? Let's celebrate because Jesus is powerful."
